SIZE DOES MATTER

The cake should be the culinary centerpiece of your wedding, but that doesn't mean you have to pull out the big guns. Choose a cake that's size-appropriate for your reception—a well-decorated small cake can make as big an impression as a fabulously adorned large one. FROM LEFT: Green fondant cake with cascading tulips, serves 125; lavender and blue fondant cake with roses, serves 100; white fondant with rosy ranunculus accents, serves 50, all by Ron Ben-Israel; WeddingCakes.com.
